

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Kelly Bedard

mailto:kelly@econ.ucsb.edu

Department of Economics

University of California, Santa Barbara

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Bedard,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Clive R. Belfield

mailto:belfield@exchange.tc.columbia.edu

National Center for the Study of Privatization in Education

Teachers College

Columbia University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Belfield,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Julian R. Betts

mailto:jbetts@ucsd.edu

Department of Economics

University of California, San Diego

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Betts,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Giorgio Brunello

mailto:brunello@decon.unipd.it

Department of Economics

University of Padova

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Brunello,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Martin Carnoy

mailto:carnoy@leland.stanford.edu

School of Education

Stanford University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Carnoy,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Elchanan Cohn

mailto:feu00004@moore.sc.edu

Department of Economics
The Darla Moore School of Business
University of South Carolina

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Cohn,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Simona Comi

mailto:comi@statistica.inimib.it

Facoltà di Scienze Politiche

Università di Milano

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Comi,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Peter Conn

mailto:pconn@dept.english.upenn.edu

Andrea Mitchell Professor of English

School of Arts and Sciences

University of Pennsylvania

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Conn,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Dr. David L. Crawford

<mailto:crawford@econsult.com>

President

Econsult Corporation

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Dr. Crawford,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

<mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk> • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Dr. Mary C. Daly

mailto:mary.daly@sf.frb.org

Economist

Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Dr. Daly,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Carmen Delia Dávila Quintana

mailto:ddavila@dmc.ulpgc.es

Department of Quantitative Methods
in Economics and Management

Universidad de las Palmas de Gran Canaria

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Dávila Quintana,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Peter Dolton

mailto:peter.dolton@newcastle.ac.uk

Department of Economics

University of Newcastle-Upon-Tyne

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Dolton,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Andrew M. Gill

mailto:agill@fullerton.edu

Department of Economics

California State University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Gill,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor T. H. Gindling

mailto:gindling@umbc.edu

Department of Economics

University of Maryland - Baltimore County

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Gindling,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Paul W. Glewwe

mailto:pglewwe@apec.umn.edu

Associate Professor

Department of Applied Economics

University of Minnesota

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Glewwe,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Arturo Gonzalez

mailto:agon@email.arizona.edu

Department of Economics

University of Arizona

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Gonzalez,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Beatriz González López-Valcárcel

mailto:bvalcarcel@dmc.ulpgc.es

Department of Quantitative Methods
in Economics and Management

Universidad de las Palmas de Gran Canaria

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor González,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Richard Grabowski

mailto:ricardo@siu.edu

Department of Economics

Southern Illinois University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Grabowski,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor W. Norton Grubb

mailto:wngrubbb@uclink.berkeley.edu

David Gardner Chair in Higher Education
Graduate School of Education

University of California, Berkeley

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Grubb,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Dr. Sudhanshu Handa

mailto:s.handa@cgnet.com

International Food Policy Research Institute

Washington, D.C.

United States of America

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Dr. Handa,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Dr. Erik A. Hanushek

mailto:hanushek@hoover.stanford.edu

Paul and Jean Hanna Senior Fellow

Hoover Institution

Stanford University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Dr. Hanushek,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Joop Hartog

mailto:hartog@fee.uva.nl

Faculty of Economics and Econometrics

University of Amsterdam

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Hartog,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Julie Heath

mailto:jheath@memphis.edu

Department Chair

Department of Economics

University of Memphis

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Heath,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Mr. Christopher Heaton

mailto:chris.heaton@efs.mq.edu.au

Lecturer

Department of Economics

Macquarie University, Sydney

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Mr. Heaton,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Stephen P. Heyneman

mailto:s.heyne@vanderbilt.edu

Professor of International Policy

Department of Leadership, Policy, and Organizations

Vanderbilt University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Heyneman,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Dr. Emmanuel Jiminez

mailto:ejimenez2@worldbank.org

World Bank
Washington, D.C.

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Dr. Jiminez,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>
mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Lawrence W. Kenny

mailto:larry.kenny@cba.ufl.edu

Department of Economics

University of Florida

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Kenny,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor B. F. Kiker

<mailto:kikerbf@moore.sc.edu>

Jeff B. Bates Chair

Economics Faculty

Moore School of Business

University of South Carolina

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Kiker,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

<mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk> • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Anthony C. Krautmann

mailto:AKRAUTMA@wppost.depaul.edu

Department of Economics

Depaul University, Chicago

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Krautmann,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Helen F. Ladd

mailto:Hladd@pps.duke.edu

Associate Director

Terry Sanford Institute of Public Policy

Duke University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Ladd,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Duane E. Leigh

mailto:leighd@wsu.edu

Department of Economics

Washington State University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Leigh,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor J. Paul Leigh

mailto:pleigh@ucdavis.edu

Department of Epidemiology and Preventative Medicine, Medical School University of California, Davis

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Leigh,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Li Hai Zheng

mailto:Haizheng.li@econ.gatech.edu

School of Economics

Georgia Institute of Technology

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Li,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Liu Jin Tan

mailto:liuit@gate.sinica.edu.tw

Department of Economics

National Taiwan University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Liu,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Paul M. Mason

mailto:pmason@unf.edu

Department of Economics and Geography

University of North Florida

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Mason,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Walter W. McMahon

mailto:wcmahon@uiuc.edu

Department of Economics

University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor McMahon,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Alicia Menendez

mailto:menendez@princeton.edu

Princeton University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Menendez,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Robert H. Meyer

mailto:rhmeyer@aol.com

Senior Scientist

Wisconsin Center for Education Research

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Meyer,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Dr. Thammarak Moenjak

mailto:thammarm@bot.or.th

Monetary Policy Group

Bank of Thailand

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Dr. Moenjak,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Ng Ying Chu

<mailto:ycng@hkbu.edu.hk>

Associate Professor

Department of Economics

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Ng,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

<mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk> • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Albert Park

<mailto:alpark@umich.edu>

Associate Professor

Department of Economics

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Park,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

<mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk> • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor T. J. Perri

mailto:perritj@appstate.edu

Department of Economics

Appalachian State University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Perri,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Athula Ranasinghe

mailto:athular@panlanka.net

Department of Economics

University of Colombo, Sri Lanka

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Ranasinghe,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Leslie Rosenthal

mailto:l.rosenthal@keele.ac.uk

Department of Economics

University of Keele, United Kingdom

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Rosenthal,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Dr. Daniel Ryan

mailto:dryan@doleta.gov

Office of Policy Research
Employment and Training Administration
US Department of Labor

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Dr. Ryan,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Dr. John Schacter

mailto:schacter@sbcglobal.net

Milken Family Foundation

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Dr. Schacter,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Sharmistha Self

mailto:sself@csbsju.edu

Department of Economics

College of Saint Benedict

St. John's University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Self,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor John J. Siegfried

mailto:John.Siegfried@Vanderbilt.Edu

Department of Economics

Vanderbilt University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Siegfried,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Robert Sproule

mailto:rsproule@ubishops.ca

Department of Economics

Williams School of Business and Economics

Bishop's University, Québec

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Sproule,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor J. Farley Ordovensky Staniec

mailto:jfarley@uop.edu

Department of Economics

University of the Pacific

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Staniec,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Thanasis Stengos

mailto:tstengos@uoguelph.ca

Department of Economics

University of Guelph, Ontario

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Stengos,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Anita A. Summers

mailto:summers@wharton.upenn.edu

Professor Emeritus

Wharton School

University of Pennsylvania

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Summers,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Kevin Sylwester

mailto:ksylwest@siu.edu

Department of Economics

Southern Illinois University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Sylwester,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Thomas Jan Voon

mailto:jvoon@ln.edu.hk

Associate Professor
Department of Economics
Lingnan University

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Voon,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>
mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

Professor Randall P. Walsh

mailto:walshr@colorado.edu

Assistant Professor

Department of Economics

University of Colorado, Boulder

Hong Kong, 04/08/03

Dear Professor Walsh,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what these people have learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention to two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong
The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or language - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04