

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Choi Tat Heung

mailto:thchoi@hkbu.edu.hk

Assistant Professor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Professor Choi,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Victor Forrester

mailto:vforrest@hkbu.edu.hk

Assistant Professor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Professor Forrester,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Mr. Lai Kwok Hung

mailto:khlai@hkbu.edu.hk

Instructor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Mr. Lai,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Dr. Lau K. L.

mailto:dinkylau@hkbu.edu.hk

Instructor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Dr. Lau,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Icy Lee

mailto:icylee@hkbu.edu.hk

Assistant Professor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Professor Lee,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Lee Tsz Ngong
mailto:tszlee@hkbu.edu.hk
Assistant Professor
Department of Educational Studies
Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Professor Lee,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>
mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Leung Yin Bing

mailto:yleung@hkbu.edu.hk

Assistant Professor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Professor Leung,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Ms. Lo W. C.

mailto:ivylo@hkbu.edu.hk

Instructor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Ms. Lo,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Mr. Ng Sun Kit

mailto:jskng@hkbu.edu.hk

Principal Instructor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Mr. Ng,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Poon Y. K.

mailto:apoon@hkbu.edu.hk

Assistant Professor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Professor Poon,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Wu Y. H.

mailto:billwu@hkbu.edu.hk

Assistant Professor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Professor Wu,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Yip Kwok Hung

mailto:khyip@hkbu.edu.hk

Assistant Professor

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Professor Yip,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Dr. Yung M. S.

mailto:amsyung@hkbu.edu.hk

Teaching Consultant

Department of Educational Studies

Hong Kong Baptist University

Hong Kong, 04/08/22

Dear Dr. Yung,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04