

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Dr. F. Niyi Akinnaso

mailto:niyi@temple.edu

Department of Anthropology

Temple University, Philadelphia

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Dr. Akinnaso,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Dr. Muhammad Amara

mailto:amaram@mail.biu.ac.il

Department of Political Studies
Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities
Bar-Ilan University, Ramat-Gan

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Dr. Amara,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Richard B. Baldauf

mailto:r.baldauf@uq.edu.au

Associate Professor

School of Education

The University of Queensland

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Baldauf,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Richard Brecht

mailto:rdbrecht@aol.com

Department of Asian and East European Languages and Cultures

University of Maryland - College Park

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Brecht,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Barbara Burnaby

mailto:bburnaby@mun.ca

Faculty of Education

Memorial University of Newfoundland

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Burnaby,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Chen Ping

mailto:p.chen@mailbox.uq.edu.au

Associate Professor

Languages and Comparative Cultural Studies

The University of Queensland

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Chen,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Michael Clyne

mailto:mgclyne@unimelb.edu.au

Professorial Fellow

Department of Linguistics and Applied Linguistics

The University of Melbourne

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Clyne,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Nanette Gottlieb

mailto:nanette.gottlieb@mailbox.uq.edu.au

Associate Professor

Languages and Comparative Cultural Studies

The University of Queensland

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Gottlieb,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor François Grin

mailto:francois.grin@etat.ge.ch

Professor of Economics

School of Translation and Interpretation

Université de Genève

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Grin,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Dr. Patrick Heinrich

mailto:patrick.heinrich@uni-duisburg.de

Wissenschaftlicher Mitarbeiter
Institut für Ostasienwissenschaften
Universität Duisburg-Essen

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Dr. Heinrich,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>
mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Dr. Christine Hélot

mailto:chelot@noos.fr

Maître de Conférence Anglais
Institut Universitaire de Formation des Maîtres
Université Marc Bloch, Strasbourg

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Dr. Hélot,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Dr. Gabrielle Hogan-Brun

mailto:g.hogan-brun@bristol.ac.uk

Research Fellow

Faculty of Arts

University of Bristol

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Dr. Hogan,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Robert B. Kaplan

mailto:rkaplan@olypen.com

Professor Emeritus

Applied Linguistics

Stanford University

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Kaplan,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Dr. Lachman M. Khubchandani

mailto:sindhuvidya-ip@eth.net

270 Sindh Society
Ganesh Khind, Pune
India

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Dr. Khubchandani,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349
H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan
Shatin • New Territories
Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Kendall King

mailto:kendall.king@nyu.edu

Assistant Professor

Faculty of Language and Linguistics

Goergetown University

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor King,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Stephen May

mailto:stephenm@waikato.ac.nz

Foundation Professor and Chair of Language and Literacy Education

School of Education

The University of Waikato

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor May,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Robert Phillipson

mailto:rp.eng@cbs.dk

Department of English

Copenhagen Business School

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Phillipson,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Elana Schohamy

mailto:elana@post.tau.ac.il

Professor of Language Education

School of Education

Tel Aviv University

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Shohamy,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Dr. Tove Skutnabb-Kangas

mailto:tovesk@ruc.dk

Visiting Researcher

Roskilde University

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Dr. Skutnabb,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

Professor Bernard Spolsky

mailto:spolsb@mail.biu.ac.il

Department of English

Faculty of Humanities

Hong Kong, 04/08/07

Dear Professor Spolsky,

Twelve years on the ground in East Asia has taught me that the world's universal English language (UEL) requirement is failing in its mission.

In the simplest of terms there are too many people learning English to provide adequate training, and there is insufficient real demand to help sustain what has been learned after they have been trained.

Moreover, there are too few people learning the languages of non-English speaking peoples to provide a sufficiently strong foundation for good cross-cultural communication and understanding. As a result the overall quality of the English language has suffered, East Asian and other languages of the world have been neglected, and understanding between peoples of Asia and the West has been impaired.

The obvious solution to this problem is to remove the artificial demand for English language created by Asian national governments and the language's global proponents. Unfortunately, those who are in the best position to remove this excess demand and consequent oversupply of poor quality English are the least inclined to do so.

In order to start the ball rolling I have created the Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment (HKLNA) Project. Before the project can get off the ground, however, it must receive support from reputable people within the world community. To this end I would like to bring to your attention two, upcoming, Hong Kong events.

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

The beginning of a solution

EVENT 1

The 18th International Language in Education Conference

http://www.ied.edu.hk/ilec2004/eng_cfp.htm

Paper abstract deadline: September 30, 2004

With regard to this event I am seeking to organize a colloquium that would include public policy makers and researchers concerned about the wasteful application of UEL requirements across East Asia and the world as a whole. Proponents of the UEL requirement that could constructively address specific problems introduced by the HKLNA-Project would also be welcome. Please see the below URL for more information.

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/qualdex.html>

EVENT II

2005 Pacific Rim Conference

Western Economic Association International

Hong Kong Economics Association

<http://www.weainternational.org/>

Paper abstract deadline: September 15, 2004

Panel deadline: August 15, 2004

With regard to the second event I am seeking to organize a panel session that would address problems of the economics of education, culture, and/or language, as they apply to globalism and regionalism in the world today. Papers that address problems similar to those found at either of the following two URLs would be especially welcome

Hong Kong Language Needs Assessment Project

English or languish - A severe case of market distortion

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/indices/econdex.html>

Hong Kong's Bottom Line

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/current/hklna/ff/quality/budget.html>

Please pass this letter along to others whom you think would be interested in either of the above two conferences. Let us not miss this golden opportunity to make multidisciplinary studies count where the world is in so much need of help.

Sincerely,

橋 守

R. A. Stegemann

HKLNA-Project Director

East Asian Research and Translation in Hong Kong

<http://homepage.mac.com/moogoonghwa/earth/>

mailto:hsmr@pacific.net.hk • tel/fax: 852 2630 0349

H2-30 Sunshine City • No. 18 On Luk Street • Ma On Shan

Shatin • New Territories

Hong Kong • China 04